[FISHING TRIP]. UNKNOWN. PHOTOGRAPH ALBUM DOCUMENTING A GROUP FISHING TRIP TO QUEBEC, CANADA. N. P.: Privately photographed, 1923. 5 3/4" x 8 1/4" string-tied leather binding, 100 pp. with 106 black and white photographs adhesive mounted. Photographs measure 2 3/4" x 4 1/2" and all are captioned. An outstanding album documenting a fishing trip by a group of men traveling from Upstate New York to Quebec. It begins at the home of C.L. Howard in Fort Hunter, New York who ran a broom manufacturing company. The first series of shots show their journey to Lac-Simon, Quebec and include images of the bridge and canal at the Mohawk River as well as great small town scenes in Paineauville and Chénéville. At Lac-Simon, they loaded their gear on boats to get to their home base of Kiamika Cabin. There are photos of the men and their guides posing at the cabin, a few internal shots of lodging, and a few showing their interaction with with "Amab Whiteduck" an 88 year old Algonquin. Many show the men fishing as well as posing with their freshly caught trout. The compiler also documented the cleaning and smoking process, with several photographs of the building and use of a smoker. The final 8 pages contain five photographs of words and music composed by some of the men on the trip, presumably about their experiences. An excellent collection of well composed, and well captioned, fishing trip photographs. Losses at edges and corners, and vertical break/crease to front cover that is quite serviceable, a few corner creases to a few pages, else a very good copy of a nicely captioned photograph album..
